- To provide a body broadly representative of the issues and interests of young people and the youth affairs field in Australia.
- To advocate for a united Australia which respects and values Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander heritage, promotes human rights, and provides justice for all.
- To represent the rights and interests of young people in Australia, at both a national and an international level.
- To promote the elimination of poverty and to promote the well-being of young Australians, with a particular focus on those who are disadvantaged.
- Recognising the diversity of Australian Society, to promote the cultural, social, economic, political, environmental and spiritual interests and participation of young people in all aspects of society.
- To advocate for, assist with and support the development of policy positions on issues affecting young people and the youth affairs field, and to provide policy advice, perspectives and advocacy to Governments and the broader community.
- To facilitate co-ordination and co-operation within the youth affairs field.

Membership Definitions

The Australian Youth Affairs Coalition (AYAC) constitution defines two categories of membership: General Members and National Members.

General Members can be youth organisations, networks, or individuals (including young people):

- Youth Organisation means a non-government organisation that works with and / or represents the interests of young people.
- Youth Network means a non-government network that works with, or represents the interests of young people.
- Young people are defined as persons under the age of 25 years.

National Members are Youth Peak Bodies or National Youth Organisations:

- Youth Peak Bodies are each state / territory youth affairs councils or equivalent bodies.
- National Youth Organisations are defined as youth organisations that operate in at least five states and / or territories of Australia.
